COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

The following amount of surplus food was distributed to eligible families during November: dry milk, 365½ lbs.; flour, 755 lbs.; corn meal, 260 lbs.; rice, 160 lbs., and dried egg, 87 cans.

Your attention is called to Article 3, Section XI of the Town Ordinances, as follows: "There shall be no overnight parking on any street or other town ways from Nov. 1 to April 1." The purpose of this ordinance is to keep the streets clear of vehicles so that the public may be provided efficient snow removal.

Delays have been experienced in getting the War Memorial monument set on the Common. The monument has been ready for delivery some time. The delay has been in getting the plaque made that is to be attached to the monument. Notice was received this week that work has been started on the plaque. The cement base was made several weeks ago on which the monument will rest.

It has been over 2½ years since gasoline was last put out to bid. Due to change in pricing it was the opinion of the Selectmen that it would be to the advantage of the town to collect bids from distributors for delivery of gasoline to the Town Garage. Out of town distributors were given the opportunity to bid as well as the local distributor. The bid of Ruth Carver Ames was next to low and was voted to be accepted, as her firm owns the tank and pump, the use of which is furnished. If the lowest bid had been accepted it would have been necessary for the town to have provided the tank and pump.

Sincerely,
Harold L. Bean

NEW BOOKS AT THE BETHEL LIBRARY
Young People:
"Creole Holiday," by Phyllis Whitney. The glamour, charm, grace of old New Orleans and its Mardi Gras characterize this spirited story of a rebellious, independent girl of the 1890s.

"Tenderfoot Trapper," by Arthur Catherall. Marooned in the Canadian wilderness with an injured old guide, sixteen-year old Warren battles the elements, wild animals, and hunger in an ordeal of stamina, courage and loyalty.

Juniors:
"The Terrible Churnadryne" by Eleanor Cameron. Tom and Jennifer are certain the mas-sive shape in the fog is a pre-historic monster, but few in their present-day California coastal town agree. Exciting.

"Madeline and the Gypsies" by Ludwig Bemelmans. Twelve little girls in two straight lines visit a carnival, but only eleven return because Madeline is with the gypsies!

When a little girl draws a picture of desired Christmas gifts, each member of her fam-ily interprets it differently. Tender, moving, for Christmas and every day in the year.

Refreshments of cookies and milk were served by Cathy Fell.—Carolyn Roberts, Club Reporter.

Bethel Hardworkers: We held our meeting Tuesday, Dec. 1, 1959. Meeting was opened by the club pledge. We talked about our health guide and demonstrations. Refreshments were served by Kathy Clough and Wanda Tibbets.—Respect-fully submitted, Cindy Chapin.
